Royal Book-making.

While Democracy has been aspiring to regal authority, Royalty has reached down for new worlds to conquer. According to Life, a London paper, the Empress Engelien has long been preparing her memoirs for publication. King Kalakaua is an aspirant for literary honors equally with the Shah of Persia, the Emperor of Brazil, and her majesty Queen Victoria.
The Emperor Napoleon III. wrote political pamphlets and histories, while not a few of the Orleans, German, Austrian, and English princes have laid claim to authorship.

Among statesmen with almost royal authority the same tendency has been noted. Lord Beaconsfield wrote novels, General Von Moltke military treatises, and others high in place have contributed to the world's store of knowledge.
General Grant's Autobiography, although written after he had put off the robes of office, has the attraction which belongs to the great military commander and president.

From the White House now issues a book by the President's sister; while senators, generals, and lesser lights burden the press with statements of the causes, results, principles and reminiscences of the war. Against such competition literary scribblers have no protection. The prestige of royalty or official democracy, backed by good salaries, gives to these amateur writers undue advantages. The world, however, knows what it wants and is quite likely to get it. It is to be hoped that royal book-makers are more successful than Horace Greeley, who declared that his literary ventures usually left him out of pocket.

Improvement Associations have been started in most of the wards of Newark.
A union organization has also been formed embracing all but three wards, with permanent committees on a new water supply, cheap railroad transportation, and other long-wished-for improvements.

The business men of our neighboring city have long been noted for their private enterprise, but public improvements have waited far too long for the good of the place. Poor pavements, bad sewerage and impure water have deterred not a few from settling there. Increased railroad facilities in New York and Brooklyn, with the attractions of parks, theatres, and other places of amusement have proved too strong a tie easily to be broken.

We are glad to see a decided effort to improve these matters. The new pavements and sewers are movements in the right direction. Lower railroad fares must eventually come, and new buildings, parks, and places of amusement will follow. Money expended for real advantages always pays a double interest to the investor.

The organization of two Building Loan societies in Bloomfield within the last month in an important step in the matter of aiding men of moderate means to secure homes for themselves. Such societies have been productive of great good in other places and the need of them has long been felt in Bloomfield. If their affairs are placed in the hands of prudent and conservative men there can be no reason why the stock should not become a safe and profitable investment, while their loans will tend to stimulate men of small means to procure for their families a permanent abiding place. The price of building lots in Bloomfield at the present time is not unreasonably high and these societies have been started not a moment too soon.

There are some signs of activity in real estate in Bloomfield which argue well for business next Spring. Those having desirable lots can build houses this winter which will be ready of occupancy next April. Of all the new houses erected during the past year we do not know of one which was not easily rented on favorable terms. Surely this fact should encourage capitalists to invest their money in this kind of property.

Those who own houses and wish to sell will do well to put their property in thorough repair before offering it to purchasers. If a man must repair a house after he buys it, he will want to get it at a low
in the end.

The Democratic ticket required two sessions for its completion, as Mr. Roswell P.
Flower declined to run for the office of Lieutenant Governor with David B. Hill.
The party organs pretend that this shows no want of confidence in their success next November, but it will require a good deal of evidence to convince most people that so persistent an office-seeker as Mr. Flower would refuse any place on a ticket which he supposed could be a winner at the polls.

General Edward F. Jones who takes the vacant place, was a brave officer in the war, but he did not attain to the eminence of General Slocum, who was also too wise to court defeat. Altogether the bid for the soldiers' vote has narrowly escaped being ridiculous.

A Morris County Democrat of the real moss-back variety recently remarked that this country had not had a free government for twenty-five years, that a man could not even shoot rabbits on his own ground. Now, however, with a Democratic President he knew such nonsense would be stopped. This is a story from life.

In response to repeated requests on the part of our temperance friends we shall next week publish a synopsis of Mr. Duffield's sermon on temperance which he has kindly consented to prepare for us.

Political Notes.

The name of ex-Alderman Theberath is mentioned in connection with the Republican Mayoralty nomination in Newark.

The Republican City Convention, to nominate a Mayor and other officers is to be held at the Academy of Music, Newark, on Wednesday evening, Oct. 7th.

The Prohibition Party of Newark have chosen delegates to a City Convention, to meet on Monday evening Oct. 5th, to nominate a ticket for the charter election.

Opposition to the re-election of Mayor Haynes has been developed within his own party, and a meeting of the malcontents was lately held in Newark, at which a score of more of leading Democrats were present, including several members of the Democrat City Central Committee.
The candidacy of Mayor Haynes for a second term was the only topic discussed, and it was alleged that "he had not been attentive to his official duties; that he had antagonized elements in his party; that he was obstinate and incompetent, and that he was not the man to conduct the Democratic canvass." It was decided to favor the nomination of Dr. English.

Newark and Vicinity.

The Presbytery of Newark meets in the Park Church, Newark, Wednesday, October 7th, at 10 A. M.

Mr. Allen Forman, editor of the New York Journalist, and dramatic critic and writer for Harper's Weekly and Young People was married Wednesday, at the residence of the bride's father, Montclair, to Miss Florence Fenn, daughter of Mr.
Harry Fenn, the artist.

An unusually bold robbery was committed at Richard Coyne's livery stable, East Orange, on Sunday morning. The thief entered the stable while the hostler was asleep, and harnessed up one of the best horses in the stable, hitching her to a phaeton belonging to Dr. T. R. Chambers, and drove away without arousing anyone.

The late Dr. Joslin was well-known to the people of Montclair, not alone because the last two years of his life were passed in their midst, but because in previous years he had made the town his place of residence during the Summer months. After his death it was found that he had made provision in his will for a benefaction to the Church of the Immaculate Conception, thus enabling the rector to pay off part of the church debt.

At the close of the Gospel meetings in Orange, Mr. Moody was invited to the house of one of the prominent citizens and asked to explain his Northfield schools, which he did, supposing they had a general interest in the same, but what was his surprise when, while talking in another room with some one, these friends of a good work made up a sum of over six thousand dollars to go towards his work there in educating young men for missions and evangelical work.

A brilliant reception was tendered to the students and alumni of the Coleman Business College, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Coleman, 556 High Street, on Saturday evening. The event was a fitting culmination to the twenty-third anniversary exercises at Association Hall on Friday evening, and was participated in by about three hundred and fifty guests, including many prominent citizens, patrons and friends of practical education.

Over eight hundred persons have been vaccinated by the Health Physicians of Newark, and still they come. Meanwhile, the medical fraternity of the city are not reaping their expected harvest from vacinating customers, and naturally they make complaint. Persons who are able to pay the dollar required for the vaccination save the dollar by having the vaccination done at the City Dispensary and at the expense of the city. This expense is six cents for each operation. A surprising number of people in good circumstances apply for vaccination at the Dispensary and take up the time of the Health Physicians.

State Items.

The new elevated road in Hoboken will be opened in a few days. Everything has been in readiness for some time.

In Trenton, in a Salvation Army case, Vice-Chancellor Bird said no religious worship could be prohibited, unless it was clearly a nuisance.

Two boys while walking on the beach at Berkeley Arms a few days ago picked up a bottle which had been washed up from the sea containing $7 in greenbacks.

Miss Maggie Dixon, the daughter of a wealthy builder of Union Hill, eloped last Friday with John W. Dewey, a dry-goods clerk, who lives in West Hoboken.

It is said that an effort will be made to have the next Legislature pass a law allowing nonresident property owners of seaside resorts to vote in municipal elections.

Asbury Park will attempt to enforce the anti-cigarette law, and the police have been authorized to arrest all boys under fifteen years of age caught smoking cigarettes.

The question whether a justice of the peace has a right to serve on the grand jury has arisen in the present Passaic Grand Jury, and it has been decided in the negative, on which account Mr.
James A. Spryall, of Passaic, was excused for the term.

It has been discovered that some of the timbers in the wooden portion of the steeple of the First Presbyterian Church at Orange, have become so unsound as to render the structure unsafe, and the entire steeple above the stone work is to be taken down and rebuilt. The steeple has stood without alteration or repair for seventy-two years.

Having purchased large invoices of Blankets during the month of August, before any advance was made, are prepared to offer extraordinary inducements to buyers.

Although we show every grade, from $1.00 a pair up to $10 per pair, we shall only call attention to a few, and to these we call special attention, as they are well worth it.

Our $5.00 Blankets are the best in the world for the price, and could not be retailed at that price had they not been purchased before the recent advance.

They are as "clean as a whistle" and measure exactly 70 inches wide and 86 inches long.

Our $4.25 Blanket is a trifle lighter in weight, but made in the same mills, from the same wool, and actually measures 70 inches wide and 84 inches long. These two are the best bargains to be found anywhere in Blankets.

In addition to the above invite the attention of those who wish to buy a superior quality to our

Strictly All-Wool Blankets, Cleaned thoroughly from all grease, and—lovely to look upon. The 12-4 will be retailed at $7.00 per pair—(perhaps a little less). The 13-4 at about $8.50 per pair. Don't forget, we have higher and lower priced Blankets, in fact, any price, as we said before, up to $10 per pair. Also BLANKETS for Cribbs and Cradles, from $1.25 per pair up to $5.00 per pair.

We sincerely pity any who buy a pair of Five-Dollar Blankets

without first looking at ours.
